Your rights as a child learning in Scotland

‘Rights’ are things every child and young person should have or be able to do to live safe, happy and healthy lives.

The United Nations says that all children and young people have the same rights.

Every child in the world has the right to a good education.

Children who have had to leave their own country as refugees have the right to a good education.

In Scotland every child can go to school from age 5 to 18.

All children in the world have the right to extra support with their education if they are disabled.

In Scotland all children have the right to ask for extra help with their learning in school when they need it. You can ask for help when you need it too.

Your education should help you use your talents and abilities.

Education should help you to live peacefully, protect the environment and respect other people.

All children in the world have the right to their own culture, religion and language.

School will help you to learn about your family's history, background and beliefs.

In school you will be able to find out things.

You will be able to share what you think with others by talking, drawing, writing or in any other way unless it harms other people or makes them feel sad.

All children in the world have the right to play.
In school you will be able to play and learn inside...and outside.

All children in the world have the right to choose their own friends.

In school you will be able to make friends with other children.

Every child in the world has the right to feel safe.
Every child in the world has the right to get help
if they are hurt.

In school no one is allowed to hurt you.
Teachers and other adults in the school are there to keep you safe.
They will help you if you are hurt or upset.

Going to school

Children in Scotland go to school every day except Saturday and Sunday.

Some children go to a community school on a Saturday morning to keep learning their own language.

During holidays, schools are closed and children should have free time to play and spend with other people like family and friends.

Homework

Sometimes you will be asked to share your learning at home. This is called 'homework'.

You do this at home then bring it back to school to share with your teacher and the other children in your class.
