LGBT Inclusive Education refers to including themes related to lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people across the school curriculum. It applies across all ages and stages, from early years to senior phase.

It is a national expectation that all teachers in Scotland will engage with the national approach to LGBT Inclusive Education. This means completing the national CPD and including the LGBT Learning Themes in ordinary teaching and learning.

TIE are Scotland's LGBT Inclusive Education Charity. They provide teachers with services and resources to implement LGBT Learning Themes into routine teaching and learning. This allows LGBT young people to feel included in their learning and helps all learners to understand that LGBT people are an equal part of our society. This education can prevent the stigma and stereotypes that leads to prejudice.
